Singapore & Malaysia – 7 Days tour

Overview of Singapore –

The Merlion of Singapore Singapore in ancient time was known as Temasek or sea town. It was than as it is today. A busy trading center. Destroyed at the end of 4th century AD. The island was rediscovered again in the 11th century AD by the prince Sang Nila Utama of the Sri Vijaya Empire upon his landing. He saw a strange beast which he later learnt was a lion, he immediately name the island “Singapore” a word for the lion city.

The merlion symbolizes in its fish body the ancient city Temasek. And its lion head. The legend of its discovering.

Over view of Malaysia – Kuala Lumpur lies in hilly country astride the confluence of the Kelang and Gombak rivers; its name in Malay means “muddy estuary.” Malaysia's Main Range rises nearby to the north, east, and southeast. The climate is equatorial, with high temperatures and humidity that vary little throughout the year.
